SUMMARY: WAYNE COLLEGE POETRY, PROSE & ACOUSTICAL JAM

Orrville, Ohio, Feb. 8, 2007 – With the 2007 edition of The Poetry, Prose & Acoustical Jam, The University of Akron Wayne College will celebrate 15 years of live performances by poets, short-story writers and acoustical musicians at the annual coffeehouse-style event.

Those who come to the Thursday, Feb. 22, show can expect to see a broad range of talent and technique. Beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Wayne College Filling Station cafeteria, the show will feature performers from the Wayne College “family” as well as talented folks from throughout the community. Some acts will be returning from previous years, but there are also typically acts making their performance debuts.

Dr. Susanna Horn, writing center coordinator and PPAJ organizer, says the show is never lacking for originality, and you can never be sure just exactly what you are going to see.

“We always have a good mix of genres and of returning and new talent,” she says. “It is a delightful time of college and community interaction!”

The annual event is sponsored by the Smucker Learning Center and Waynessence, the college’s literary and arts publication, and provides aspiring authors a unique opportunity to share the stage with published writers and community members.

The Poetry, Prose & Acoustical Jam is free and open to the public. Complimentary coffee and tea will be served.

New acts are encouraged. To register as a participant or for more information, contact Horn at 330-684-8962, or 1-800-221-8308, ext. 8962.

Wayne College is the regional campus of The University of Akron and is located at 1901 Smucker Road in Orrville.
