SUMMARY: SUCCEED IN COLLEGE WORKSHOPS RETURN

Orrville, Ohio, Dec. 12, 2007 – The Smucker Learning Center at The University of Akron Wayne College again will offer the workshop series titled Get Ready to Succeed in College. These workshops are designed to help college students face the challenges of the college classroom. There is no charge for the workshops, but reservations are recommended due to limited space. Community members who wish to review skills in math, writing and computers are welcome to attend.

The series includes Algebra Review, Learning Strategies for College Success, Using Excel Spreadsheets to Organize Data, and Preparing for College Writing. Participants may choose to attend one or all of the workshops that begin on Monday, Jan. 7.

The first workshop is Algebra Review, which will be held Monday, Jan. 7 from 10 a.m. to noon. Algebra Review is designed to relieve math anxiety for students who have not taken a math or algebra class recently.

Learning Strategies for College Success will be held Tuesday, Jan. 8 from 10 a.m. to noon. This interactive workshop will help participants discover the difference between mastery and performance goal orientations and how that difference affects learning.

The Wednesday, Jan. 9, workshop is titled Using Excel Spreadsheets to Organize Data, and it is scheduled to meet from 10 a.m. to noon. Participants will learn the basics of developing spreadsheet formatting skills using Microsoft Excel.

Preparing for College Writing will be held Thursday, Jan. 10 from 10 a.m. to noon. It will cover the various resources used by writers and how to write a college essay.
